About Dr Tristin Mock

Before becoming a physician, Tristin's studies focused on history, international relations, biology, and gerontology. Tristin grew up attending public schools in The Dalles.

Both Tristin's father and stepfather were members of the United Steelworkers union and veterans of the armed forces. These male influences gave her an appreciation of the life combat soldiers face, and the difficulties and rewards of service.

Dr Mock has worked hard to improve the quality of life in her community. She spent much of her time during medical school helping low income patients in low-cost and free clinics.

Tristin is a pragmatist and understands that concern for the environment, healthcare, and our future can foster new markets and generate local jobs. She is excited to bring these opportunities to Oregon and the rest of the US.

To support her belief in election reform, Tristin only takes donations from individuals- you can be sure that Tristin will represent your interests, not those of big corporations.

Peace

The US must end its invasion of Iraq. We should be providing veterans with appropriate support when they return to the US. Care of the body, mind, and spirit are essential. All veterans should be honored for their service, fed, sheltered, and healed.

Community-Based Economics

Locally produced items provide quality products, meaningful work and a decent standard of living to members of your community, while reducing costs and pollution.

Universal Healthcare

Everyone deserves access to healthcare. Ongoing wellness care can help prevent illnesses, costing everyone less money.

Retirement

With the continued raiding of the social security fund, and the large population of people nearing retirement age, reforms must be made. Generations of people paid into the social security fund, and now that they need it, it is disappearing. Several actions need to be taken to minimize this crisis, first being that the social security fund should be off limits!
